It was easier and faster for me to find and understandI'd prefer a calendar style primarily because that is the type that would be most visually meaningful for my daughter - to be able to see when the assignment is due and how far away that is from the current date is helpful for her.I like both styles--depends on the teacher's use of them. Clean lines are what I like.

I felt it was harder to find the assignmentblog post style can be too variable -- the teacher wouldn't necessarily put the same information in the same place consistently. It could also be too wordy and harder to find information.The calendar is fine as an addition, but not all.
